Presidents' Message

Our membership event in early January was a great success, and we thank Laura Noll and Mary Lea Burden for their efforts to keep our branch vibrant with additional talented and enthusiastic women. Thanks also to our meeting coordinators, Susan Gelber and Harriet Moore, who provided such a lovely table of tea sandwiches and cakes. We welcome our new members and encourage any prospective members who are reading this to join us. We look forward to your future participation and hope that AAUW will have a positive impact on your life.

As many of you know, we had a large representation at AAUW-NJ's Pay Equity Conference at Brookdale, where the keynote speaker was Lilly Ledbetter. How timely it was that the conference came just days after the Senate passed the Lilly Ledbetter Fair Pay Act (S. 181) by a 61-36 vote. Find more information on page 5.

Not only is March Women's History Month, but also March 8 is International Women's Day. Its purpose is to connect all women around the world and inspire them to achieve their full potential. IWD is now an official holiday in over a dozen countries such as Russia, Armenia, Ukraine, and Vietnam. The tradition sees men honoring their mothers, wives, girlfriends, and colleagues with flowers and small gifts. In some countries IWD has the equivalent status of Mother's Day, when children give small presents to their mothers and grandmothers. This is the global day to recognize the collective power of women, past, present, and future. This day should also remind us that millions of women across the globe are still denied basic human rights, such as access to healthcare, education,

In Memoriam

Honorary Life Member Carla Wilkinson passed away on January 8, 2009. She was a member of AAUW for more than 62 years. A graduate of New York University and Columbia Teacher's College, Carla taught school for many years. She was a frequent volunteer at the Used Book Sale, was active in the German and French study groups, and served on various committees within the branch. She will be greatly missed by her friends in AAUW, Shadow Lake Village, and the League of Women Voters.

Public Policy“Keep the Change Until Women Have Real Change”

According to new data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, in 2007 the ratio of women's and men's median annual earnings reached almost 78 cents on the dollar for full-time, year-round workers, up from just under 77 cents in 2006. This is the narrowest the wage gap has ever been, but it's only an additional one cent on the dollar. One cent isn't real change; it's chump change. So AAUW's new initiative “Keep the Change Until Women Have Real Change” urges Congress to pass legislation that will give women effective equal pay protections.

Thanks to the hard work of AAUW Action Network members and our coalition partners, the House passed both the Paycheck Fairness Act and the Ledbetter Fair Pay Act, and the Senate passed the Ledbetter Fair Pay Act, in the first actions of the 111th Congress. AAUW members and supporters have worked tirelessly for years to bring these bills to passage, and recently many Action Network subscribers sent multiple messages to their Senators and Representatives in favor of this legislation. AAUW's Capitol Hill Lobby Corps was also instrumental in this advocacy campaign, visiting many congressional offices to represent the support of AAUW members across the nation. These bills provide a critical opportunity for Congress to make real progress on pay equity. President Obama made the Ledbetter Fair Pay Act the first bill he signed into law. Both of NJ's Senators, Lautenberg and Menendez, voted for the Ledbetter Act. Representatives Rush Holt, Frank Pallone, Jr., and Christopher Smith voted for both Acts.

Passing both bills in tandem was critical to the overall goal of achieving pay equity for women. The Ledbetter Fair Pay Act rights the wrongs done by the Supreme Court, regaining ground we've lost and ensuring that people who've been discriminated against can seek vindication. The Paycheck Fairness Act is a comprehensive bill that creates stronger incentives for employers to follow the law, as well as strengthens penalties for violations; strengthens federal outreach, education, and enforcement efforts; and prohibits retaliation against workers who ask about employers' wage practices. Together the bills will help create a climate in which pay discrimination is not tolerated and give the new administration enforcement tools it needs to make real progress on pay equity.

AAUW-NJ Pay Equity Conference

The Achieving Pay Equity Conference, held at Brookdale on January 24, couldn't have been more timely in its topic and content. Lilly Ledbetter herself was a compelling keynote speaker, telling her story of learning late that she had been paid much less than male co-workers at Goodyear Tire and Rubber for nearly 20 years, and her subsequent efforts to rectify this inequity through the courts. The substantial settlement she was initially awarded was overturned in the Supreme Court's 2007 decision that tossed aside long-standing prior law and made it much harder for women and other workers to pursue pay discrimination claims, stating that a charge must be filed within 180 days of the employer's initial decision to pay an employee less. Although knowing that she wouldn't benefit financially from subsequent legislation to restore the prior law, Ledbetter devoted many years to the litigation and the ensuing attempts to pass the legislation. It was inspiring to listen to such a courageous woman.

An overview of the pay gap issue was presented by Dr. Yasemin Besen-Cassino of Montclair State and Dr. Mary Gatta of Rutgers. Lindsey Pollack conducted an interactive session on negotiating, which experts consider a critical component in achieving pay equity. More than 100 people attended the conference, including at least 12 members of our branch.
